RIVAL OF GONDOLA.

American Motor Boat on Historic Canals of Venice.

The American motor boat has invaded the romantic canals of Venice, says the New York Tribune. As the gondolier bends over his swinging oar he hears every now and then the "chug chug" of a gasoline engine behind him and the next moment beholds a waspish craft dart past and on in the distance. The city of Venice recently established a transportation system of its own and is operating fifty or more motor boats through the canals and lagoons, much as New York might operate its own street cars. Venice believes in municipal ownership.

To ride in the motor boats of Venice, however, costs the passenger considerably less than the New York street car. The fare is only 2 cents. The sprightly little vessels ply up and down the Grand canal, which divides the city like a huge S, and also the smaller waterways which intersect it like so many veins and arteries. Their plain, clean cut hulls, built only for speed and strength, when contrasted with the bright beaked gondolas, with their black leather cushions and gayly colored curtains fluttering from their windows, form as much of an antithesis as an American in business dress placed alongside some knight of the middle ages bedecked in silks and laces.

To the average inhabitant the motor boat is far more welcome than the other craft which the modern age of invention has brought to Venice. Because of its low cut stern the motor boat does not kick up waves against the houses as does the steam or gasoline launch. Accordingly it is permitted to navigate the narrowest canals, where the cumbersome, heavily churning steamer is prohibited. Some of the rich Venetians are also buying motor boats in which to go to and from business or for extended holiday jaunts to suburban pleasure resorts.

NEW MILKY WAY.

Found by Means of Professor Barnard's Telescope on Wilson's Peak.

The Bruce telescope, which was recently erected on Wilson's peak by Professor E. E. Barnard, is already turning out material of the highest interest and value, says a Los Angeles dispatch. The telescope was made in accordance with the professor's own designs.

Every night from dark until 5 in the morning Professor Barnard is making observations and taking photographs. His investigations are directed to the region of the milky way, near the constellation of Sagittarius. This area of the heavens has never before been explored in this manner.

A few days ago, upon developing a plate taken with a long exposure covering the region in Sagittarius, there was revealed in the lower left hand corner a whitish appearance, with the edges sharply defined and looking not unlike the gauzy wings of a fly, the dimensions, as projected on the plate, being about half an inch by a third of an inch.

This white blur was a picture of a celestial object of inconceivable magnitude and which until that morning no mortal eye had beheld. It was a hitherto unknown nebula.

The nebula is so remote from our system that no accurate estimate of its area can be made. There is little doubt that a thousand solar systems such as ours could be contained in it.

MONKEY THAT TALKS.

Brazilian Doctor Says He Has Taught an Ape to Repeat Words.

The director of the National museum of the City of Mexico recently received a copy of a report issued by Dr. S. W. Speitzcheizze, director of the museum in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, detailing the results of his experiments with monkeys, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The report is sensational.

Dr. Speitzcheizze declares that he has taught one large ape to talk and to obey commands and says that he believes it possible to develop similar powers and intelligence in the majority of monkeys. The talking ape at present simply repeats words and expressions like a parrot, but the Brazilian doctor says he thinks the animal will ultimately reach such a grade of intelligence as to be able to express his desires in speech.

Dr. Speitzcheizze concludes his report with the statement that he is confident monkeys can be made useful in many kinds of work and that they can be trained for offensive and defensive action in case of war.

LONE STAR.

Special Correspondence.

LONE STAR, April 23.

Dear Herald:—As I have not seen anything from this part of the country, I will write a few lines.

Mrs. Jones has been very sick for the last few days, but is better today.

This part of the country was visited with a big rain a few weeks ago and washed up a great deal of corn for the farmers, and they had to plant over. Some have their cotton planted while others have not.

Potatoes are growing fast.

Rev. H. V. Collins preached at Myrtle Springs church house today, and a nice crowd attended.

Macye Gregory spent Saturday night with Mattie Beaird.

Johnnie Jones of this city is attending school at Rusk.

Lottie Burke is visiting her sister at Java.

Miss Annie Naason began teaching school at this place Monday.

Prof. James O'Keefe of Mount Selman was in the city today.

Will close. BROWN EYES.

HARMONY.

Special Correspondence.

HARMONY, April 28, 1905.

Dear Herald:—The Sleeping Beauty has awoke and has come to give a few dots from this part of the county. The farmers of this community have about finished planting corn. Some few have planted a little cotton.

Mr. Ed Funderburk is at Blum visiting his sister, Mrs. Eva Huffman; also his brother, R. G. Funderburk.

Miss Maggie Eubanks is visiting friends and relatives at Blackfoot.

Miss Bershaba Callaway attended the Easter hunt at her uncle's, Mr. John Callaway, of Pleasant Grove.

W. F. Reader has returned to Houston.

Prof. O. C. Funderburk is visiting home folks this week.

The Easter hunt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Huffman, was a grand success. The children were delighted with so many "rabbit eggs." They promised a pretty bouquet to the one that found the most eggs—Dickie Huffman being the lucky one, finding 15 eggs. We also enjoyed singing after the hunt was over.

Some of the people of this neighborhood are intending to attend the fifth Sunday meeting to be held at Eureka next Sunday. Hope they will have a good time and enjoy the meeting. I remain, SLEEPING BEAUTY.

O'NEALS CHAPEL.

Special Correspondence.

O'NEALS CHAPEL, April 25.

Dear Herald:—As I have not got anything else to do I will try and give a few dots from this part of the county.

Health is exceedingly good.

Farmers have nearly finished planting cotton, but some say they will have to plant over on account of so much rain. This community was visited by the hardest rain I have ever seen on Sunday night. It liked to have ruined the crops.

Mr. Dave Maddox and family were guests at the home of Mr. Shennan Maddox Saturday night.

Mr. L. B. Starks and wife attended church at old Fort Houston Sunday.

Mr. George Cooper and family spent Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Jennie Starks.

The young people enjoyed a candy breaking at Mr. George Cooper's Saturday night. They report a jolly, good time.

Miss Effie Miner and Mr. M. B. Miner attended singing at Swanson's Chapel Sunday. They report some good singing.

Mrs. Julia Duckworth has been on the sick list, but is somewhat improved at this writing.

I want Brother Greenie to understand that Pluck is not a boy. Remember this now, Greenie, and don't make any remarks about me.

Sunday school is progressing nicely. PLUCK.
